Helping Hand

Inventor Michael Duncan of Even Par Enterprises has developed a new type of low-cost device to help military amputees, stroke victims and other physically challenged folks lead happier, fulfilling lives.

His Lend-A-Hand is a universal assistant that provides arm support, leverage and strength.

Michael says his product, “increases mobility while decreasing the strain off of the individual’s shoulders, arms, back and legs. Lend-A-Hand helps allow the individual to play golf, wash cars, paint, rake, sweep, wash floors (and) go fishing.”

Chores will still be a bore – but now you won’t have any excuses.
